Mackay builders urged to learn more about Passive Fire Protection

Member for Mackay Tim Mulherin is encouraging Mackay builders and trade contractors to attend a free seminar on Passive Fire Protection this week.

Mr Mulherin said limited places were still available for the Mackay seminar.

“Effective Passive Fire Protection is an essential safety component in any building, so it is important that local builders have the opportunity to learn more about this area or to brush up on their existing knowledge,” he said.

“Doing the job properly when installing passive fire protection not only means the best standard of fire safety for residents, but could also save costly rectification work down the track.”

Public Works Minister Robert Swarten said the seminar would include important technical DVD information and useful advice from an industry expert.

“These shows demonstrate how to implement best practice methods for passive fire protection systems in class two and three buildings, and help contractors to ensure their work complies with the Building Code of Australia,” Mr Swarten said.

To book your place, phone 1300 BSA BSA, visit www.bsa.qld.gov.au or email bsaseminars@bsa.qld.gov.au, including your licence number and the seminar you wish to attend.

The BSA is holding Trade Specific Seminars around the state on different topics each month.
